Having "something to say" is both a joy and a daily struggle for most of us. We wrestle with saying the right and timely thing to the people God has in our lives. We know our message is not culturally popular and most of us have experienced what we would categorize as personal failures in our efforts to be a witness for Jesus and the good news. Yet the truth is that the success of our witness doesn't depend on us. That's up to God's Spirit. So pray for each other's witness this week, seeking the Spirit to us each of you in ways that are beyond your own plan or expectation.
